ABOUT THE CENTRE FOR TRADE AND INVESTMENT LAW

The Centre for Trade and Investment Law (“CTIL” or “Centre”) was established in the year 2016 by the Department of Commerce, Ministry of Commerce and Industry, Government of India. The Centre works as an independent think tank with the primary objective of providing sound and rigorous legal analysis to the Government of India on matters pertaining to international trade and investment law. CTIL has been created to develop a dedicated pool of legal experts who could provide technical inputs for enhancing India’s participation in international trade and investment negotiations and dispute settlement. CTIL’s mission is to identify, analyse and impart creative ideas and perspectives with the view to influencing the international discourse on a wide range of aspects of international economic law. The Centre aims to engage with different stakeholders including central and state governments, think tanks, research centres, National Law Schools and other institutions rendering legal education in international economic law, independent legal professionals, industry, and private sector.

REQUEST FOR PROPOSALS

As part of its mission of imparting trade law capacity to governmental agencies, CTIL plans to organize a three-day training and capacity building programme for Indian Government officials working in the field of international trade and economic diplomacy. The training programme is scheduled to be organized in August/September, 2018 in New Delhi, India. The training should encompass detailed aspects of international treaty negotiations, treaty drafting, dispute settlements involving World Trade Organization (WTO) agreements, bilateral investment treaties, preferential trade agreements, and other treaties having a significant bearing on trade or investment. CTIL invites proposals from internationally recognized and reputed organisations with an established track record and expertise in conducting such training programmes in the aforementioned fields. Interested organizations may submit a detailed technical and financial proposal to the below mentioned address by the stipulated deadline.
