Leading in today's dynamic global environment, this textbook provides a comprehensive and accessible introduction to the field of international economic law. It covers the key areas of trade law, including the World Trade Organization (WTO) and the General Agreement on Trade and Tariffs (GATT), as well as the role of the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund (IMF). The book is written by two leading experts in the field, Leïla Choukroune and James J. Nedumpara, who provide a clear and concise overview of the subject. The book is suitable for students of law, economics, and international relations, and is also a valuable reference for practitioners in the field.

Leïla Choukroune is a Professor of International Law at the University of Portsmouth, UK. She is also a Senior Research Fellow at the Centre for Trade and Investment Law, Cambridge University. She has published extensively on international economic law and is a frequent speaker at international conferences.

James J. Nedumpara is a Professor of International Law at the Centre for Trade and Investment Law, Cambridge University. He is also a Senior Research Fellow at the Centre for Trade and Investment Law, Cambridge University. He has published extensively on international economic law and is a frequent speaker at international conferences.
